Dollar Store Therapy: Promoting Motor Learning and Skill Acquisition on the Cheap

With Lisa Protsman, PT, PhD, PCS
Thursday February 15, 2018
2 PT or OT continuing education contact hours are available at no cost
Attend in person or by remote access
6:00 pm – 8:00 pm

Physical Therapists and Occupational Therapists working with young children with movement disorders develop treatment strategies to support motor learning in home and clinic settings. This training will review motor learning theories, provide supporting evidence for strategies that promote motor learning, discuss intervention strategies and activities to maximize motor skill acquisition and illustrate how inexpensive items (Dollar Store purchases) can support motor learning.
