

Introduction to ASD

Maryann Trott, MA, BCBA, Education & Outreach Manager, Autism and Other Developmental Disabilities Program

This e-course will provide current information related to the diagnosis and characteristics of autism. Also included are how brain differences relate to some behavioral differences, possible causes, and how to support individuals with autism in the home, school and community.

Maryann Trott is an Education and Outreach Manager with the Autism and Other Developmental Disabilities Program at the Center for Development and Disability. She is a Board Certified Behavior Analyst. She worked in New Mexico public schools beginning in 1974, serving as both a classroom teacher and consultant. Specific interests include sensory processing, toilet training, precision teaching and working with individuals with severe disabilities. She has traveled throughout the United States giving Professional Development Seminars. She is the author of SenseAbilities – Understanding Sensory integration and Oh Behave! Sensory processing and behavior strategies working together.