Manuel Archuleta, MD
UNM SOM Class of ’73

Manny Archuleta, MD, a proud native New Mexican, is recognized for a long, distinguished career in medicine serving the people of New Mexico through a variety of professional venues. He continues to practice at PMG Isleta Pediatrics.

His lifelong work in pediatrics allowed him to be involved in governance of medical staffs, as well as local and state pediatric societies.

Dr. Archuleta’s dedication to healthcare for New Mexicans has made him a model for professionalism and legendary caring service. He is truly deserving of the 2013 Distinguished Alumni Award.

Catherine McClain, MD
UNM SOM Class of ’88

Catherine (Cate) McClain, MD, shines locally, nationally, and internationally as an exceptional leader, a passionate physician, and a compassionate clinician. Under her directorship, she leads the Center for Development & Disability at UNM, Department of Pediatrics. She is known world-wide for work with Autism Spectrum Disorders and provides her expertise globally.

With her guidance, the Center has a presence in every county in NM providing clinical services, trainings, and consultations. Innovatively, she introduced the use of telehealth to increase delivery of these services statewide. State agencies seek her expertise and tutelage, thus creating valuable partnerships and collaborations.

Her work and life embody the qualities of the Leonard M. Napolitano, PhD Award.

My proudest professional moments were graduation from UNM SOM and achieving Board Certification. It has been a privilege to serve the children of New Mexico and their families in my practice of General Pediatrics.

I’m honored to work with so many committed colleagues in addressing the needs of New Mexicans with disabilities and very proud of the Center’s accomplishments.
